FACTS ABOUT UNIVERSITY OF CONNECTICUT SINCE 1881

Based on

Connecticut's Own University: The First Proud Century, 1881-1981

by Evan Hill

This booklet was originally written by Evan Hill in honor of the University of Connecticut's centennial celebration which occurred in 1981. The data prior to 1981 was developed by Evan Hill.

It has been updated in 1992 by the Office of Institutional Research (OIR) with the assistance of the staff of many different offices on campus. University of Connecticut catalogs provided additional information. Special thanks go to Carol Elliott (Payroll/OIR), Diana Cicero (OIR/Class of 1993), LeeAnn Goslin (OIR/Class of 1993), Jeremy Marzella (PR/Class of 1992), and Linh Kauffman (OIR) for typing this edition and searching for the updated information, and especially to Evan Hill and his assistants for providing the original booklet.

Please note that some information from the original edition may have been omitted due to the inability to update it. This edition was coordinated by Donna Davis (OIR) and distributed in October 1992. Although the Office of Institutional Research will try to maintain this booklet annually, published editions will be sporadic. Please call Donna at 486-4240 if you have any updating corrections, questions, or comments.

ADMINISTRATIVE HEADS -- STUDENT AFFAIRS AND SERVICES

It was not until after the institution had achieved university status that all responsibilities connected with student life were consolidated under one office. A special officer to care for the concerns of women students was established very early, in 1894; the first Dean of Men was not appointed until 1929. Before 1939, student housing was handled by Deans of Men and Women. Very early, when the institution was very small, the presidents and their assistants were personally involved. Over the years, the titles of the persons responsible for student housing changed from Housing Coordinator to Director of Housing to what it is now: Director of Residential Life.

Lady Principal (1)

- 1894-97 Margaret Kenwill, Instructor of Music
- 1897-1900 Lulie G. Lincoln, Instructor of Music
- 1900-02 Marcia G. Greenough, Professor of Music and Domestic Science and Art
- 1902-10 Alberta Tullia Thomas, Professor of Domestic Science and Art
- 1910-12 Maud Ellen Hayes (2), Professor of Domestic Science

Dean of Women (3)

- 1927-28 Gladys Irene Hendrickson, Dean of the Division of Home Economics and Professor of Home Economics
- 1928-53 Mildred Pearl French (4), Dean of the Division of Home Economics and Professor of Home Economics
- 1953-71 Elizabeth T. Noftsker

Dean of Men (3)

- 1929-48 Sumner Alvord Dole (5), Professor of Physical Education
- 1947-61 Reuben B. Johnson
- 1961-68 John P. Dunlop

Dean of Students (6)

1941-44 William James Haggerty

1944-65 Arwood Stanley Northby, Associate Professor of Education

1965-74 Robert E. Hewes

1969-74 John J. Manning, Associate Dean for Student Affairs

Vice President, Student Affairs and Services (7)

1974-80 Frederick G. Adams

1980-81 Frank A. Napolitano (acting)

1981- Carol A. Wiggins

(1) In 1893, when the Storrs Agricultural School became a four-year college and Land Grant institution, a number of changes were affected including the title of the head of the college from Principal to President, opening of the college officially to women students, and the establishment of the position of Lady Principal. As President Koons stated in the Annual Report of the Trustees, 1894, "Feeling the need for someone to take more immediate supervision of our young ladies department, and the home life of our pupils in general, and to look after their personal welfare" led to the appointment of Miss Kenwill to this position.

(2) The college catalog from 1910 on does not list a Lady Principal though the description of Grove Cottage mentions rooms for the Lady Principal. The student monthly news bulletin, The Lookout, lists Miss Hayes as the Lady Principal in the 1910-12 issues.

(3) The titles of Dean of Men and Dean of Women remained current until the late 1960's, although by then they bore the official designation, "Associate Dean for Women's (Men's) Affairs." In 1969 the Division of Student Personnel was reorganized: the offices of Men's Affairs and Women's Affairs were merged, and the Associate Dean for Student Affairs assumed the responsibility for all matters related to the student life of all students.

(4) Miss French gave up the Deanship of the Division of Home Economics when the University organization was established in 1940.

(5) Mr. Dole relinquished his professorship in Physical Education in 1934.

(6) In 1939, when the Connecticut State College became the University of Connecticut, the administrative and organizational structure was changed. Divisions such as Home Economics and Agriculture became the School of Home Economics and the College of Agriculture. The Division of Student Personnel was created and most of the services and activities relating to undergraduate students other than those of instruction, athletics, and health, were placed under its administration. Heads of Schools and Colleges were designated as Deans and those administering the Divisions were designated as Directors. The head of Student Personnel, however, after the mid-forties was also designated Dean of Students.

(7) In 1974, under President Glenn W. Ferguson, the University administrative structure was again reorganized. "To upgrade the critical student affairs portfolio" was one of the ten major objectives of the revision. A result was to change the Division's title from Student Personnel to Student Affairs and Services, and to create a vice-presidency for its administrative head.

DEANS OF SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES

During its first 40 years, with its strong emphasis on agriculture and engineering for men, and home economics for women, the institution was small enough and limited enough in course offerings so that a formal organization into academic units was not necessary. But by 1920, with 456 students and 41 faculty members, the college was divided into five academic divisions: Agriculture, Agricultural Science (sometimes simply called Science), Home Economics, Teacher-Training, and Mechanical Engineering. Over the years the Division of Agriculture became the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources; Agricultural Science developed into the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences; Home Economics, the School of Home Economics and Family Studies; Teacher-Training, the School of Education; Mechanical Engineering, the School of Engineering. The Division of Agricultural Science in the beginning was almost more science than agriculture with a steady development toward pure and theoretical science, but in order to placate farmers in the state legislature, some of whom feared that the Storrs school might stray from agriculture into liberal arts, the word "agricultural" was inserted before Science.

PRESIDENTS OF THE STUDENT GOVERNMENT

A student government has existed here since 1894, although in various forms and under different names. The first was composed of nine elected students (out of 145 in the student body) who conferred with the faculty "upon matters of government of the college." By 1913 the organization was called the Student Organization, and the 239 students then enrolled at Connecticut Agricultural College were members of this body. In 1921 the government was re-organized and a standing committee called the Student Senate was formed as the executive branch. It elected a president, the equivalent of a student body president. The Senate remained the seat of student political power until 1973 when it was dissolved. The following year the Federation of Students and Service Organizations (FSSO) replaced it. In 1980 FSSO was replaced by the Undergraduate Student Government (USG).

WHUS

In 1922, two years after the first commercial radio station began to broadcast in the U.S., The University installed a broadcasting station, WABL, on the upper floor of the Mechanic Arts Building (now the Admissions Building) with two 103-foot-high steel towers in the rear for its "aerial." For one hour on Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 7:15 p.m. the station broadcasted weather reports, agricultural news and information to farmers, the scores of collegiate sports, and musical concerts on campus. It was operated by Daniel E. Noble, a graduate student, who later became a member of the engineering faculty and left the university to become vice president of Motorola.

In 1925 the power was increased from 100 watts to 500 watts, (the same power as that of WTIC at the time) the call letters were changed to WCAC and the first basketball game (with Trinity) was broadcast live. By 1931 it was broadcasting eight hours a week, and later in the 1930's the station was sold to "a concern operating in Boston and Providence."

The Husky Network, a student-operated station, broadcasted Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings for one hour and 15 minutes from the Community House of the Storrs Congregational Church. It began its broadcasts in April of 1940, was disbanded when the U.S. got involved in World War II, and its equipment was dispersed in the war effort.

In the fall of 1946 it was revived as WHUS (although it was still also called the Husky Network) with studios in Koons' basement. It left the air from 1954 to 1956 because of technical difficulties in complying with the Federal Communications Commission restrictions on signal strength. During that time it broadcast only to the Student Union Building from noon until 6 p.m., three to five days a week. In 1952 its studios were moved from Koons Hall to the newly-opened Student Union Building.

HONORARY DEGREES CONFERRED

As the result of a strict interpretation by the State Attorney General of Law giving the University the right to grant degrees, honorary degrees were almost non-existent in early years at UConn. Although the legislature did give the University permission to offer degrees to which its courses lead, since no courses lead to an honorary degree, the Attorney General ruled that no honorary degrees could be conferred. In 1982, however, the Attorney General overturned the earlier ruling and the University could again offer honorary degrees.

1918 Robert M. Landers, Master of Science. Chairman of the Commission of Food Supply and Conservation of the State Council of Defense during World War I.

Robert Scoville, Master of Science. Federal Food Administrator for Connecticut.

1992	$10,200	$23,977	43%

NOTE: The yearly wages prior to 1982 are for a factory worker, and were gathered by Evan Hill. Beginning in 1982, the yearly wages represent that of a manufacturing worker. It is believed that the original source may have changed its information from factory worker to manufacturing worker, thus decreasing the yearly wages. THE BUILDINGS ARE NAMED FOR:Classroom and Office Buildings

ATWATER (ANIMAL GENETICS) LABORATORY: built in 1930, 1958. Named after Wilbur Olin Atwater (1844-1907), Professor of Chemistry at Wesleyan University from 1873, and director of the Storrs Experiment Station from 1877 to 1902. He was extremely influential in the establishment of the first state agriculture station in the U.S. (in Middletown, CT), and in the passage of the Hatch Act of 1877 which established an experiment station in each state.

ARJONA (HUMANITIES BUILDING): built in 1959. Named after Jaime Homero Arjona (1906-1967), Puerto Rican-born head of the department of Foreign Languages (1946-1964). He joined the University as an Instructor in 1932 and developed the department into one of the strongest in the College of Liberal Arts. He specialized in Spanish drama and poetry and was internationally known for developing a statistical method of literary analysis.

HOMER BABBIDGE LIBRARY: built in 1978. Named after Homer Babbidge (1925-1985), 12th President (1962-1972). He was a historian instrumental in putting the library together and increasing its volumes to more than one million. He established the Medical-Dental Center and expanded functions of various departments such as Anthropology, Linguistics, and the Material Science Institute. He received a Bachelor's degree and an honorary LL.D. degree from Yale.

BEACH HALL: built in 1929. Named after Charles Lewis Beach (1866-1933), 5th President (1908-1928), who served the institution for 30 years. A graduate of the University of Wisconsin (1886), he joined the University in 1896 as an Instructor in Dairy Husbandry, and left after ten years to teach at the University of Vermont. Two years later he was called to Storrs as President of the University. The building has housed the University library, the U.S. Post Office, the bookstore, the President's office and the men's faculty club.

WILLIAM BENTON MUSEUM OF ART: built in 1920. Named after William Burnett Benton (1900-1973), U.S. Senator from CT (1949-1953) and University Trustee (1957-1972). He helped found Benton and Bowles, one of the world's largest advertising agencies; was publisher of the Encyclopedia Britannica, vice-president of the University of Chicago, and a U.S. ambassador to UNESCO in Paris. The building was first used as a dining hall, and students called it "The Beanery."

BISHOP CENTER (CONTINUING EDUCATION): built in 1971. Named after Merlin D. Bishop (1907--), a Trustee (1951-1975) and Secretary of the Board (1964-1972). He was the University's representative to the State Commission on Higher Education and was the regional director of the United Auto Workers Union.

W. A. BOUSFIELD BUILDING (PSYCHOLOGY): built in 1974. Named after Weston A. Bousfield (1904-1986), head of Psychology (1939-1960). He pioneered the investigation of organization in memory.

BRONWELL BUILDING (ENGINEERING III): built in 1968. Named after Arthur B. Bronwell (1909-1985), a Dean of the School of Engineering (1962-1970), President of Worcester Polytechnic Institute (1955-1962), and Executive Secretary of the American Society of Engineering Education (1947-1955). Initiated plans for the new Engineering III building and also for the Institute of Material Science and the Departments of Metallurgy and Aerospace.

BUDDS BUILDING: built in 1950. Named after John J. Budds (1908--) of West Hartford, a Trustee (1957-1971) and Chairman of the Board (1959-1971). The building was formerly known as the Administration Building. Budds was chairman of the West Hartford Board of Finance in the 1950's and was co-ordinator of the Medicare Administration at the Travelers Insurance Company in Hartford. In 1968 he was elected president of The Association of Governing Boards of Colleges and Universities, a national board.

CASTLEMAN BUILDING (ENGINEERING I): built in 1941. Named after Francis Lee Castleman, Jr., (1902-1954); Head of the Engineering department (1935-1942); Dean of School of Engineering (1942-1946). He designed bridges and buildings for the American Bridge Company from 1936-1942. Among his better-known textbooks are: The Mathematics of Suspension Bridge Erection and Wind Forces on Tall Buildings.

WILBUR CROSS LIBRARY: built in 1937 & 1938; opened 1939; addition in 1965. Named after Wilbur L. Cross (1862-1948), Democratic Governor of Connecticut (1931-1939), who was born in Gurleyville. Educated at Yale where he received both Bachelor's and Doctorate's degrees in English Literature, he became Dean of the Yale Graduate School and a respected literary historian.

GAMPEL PAVILLION: built in 1990. Named after Harry A. Gampel who is head of the Gampel Organization which administers to a variety of different real estate developments including Corporate Plaza in Hartford, Board of Directors - Fort Lauderdale Art Museum and the Jewish Federation of Miami. He received an undergraduate degree in Business Administration (1943) at UConn. The Pavillion was made possible by a last minute donation of one million dollars by Harry Gampel.

EDWARD V. GANT SCIENCE COMPLEX: Named after Edward V. Gant (1918-1985), Acting Dean and then Assistant Dean of UConn School of Engineering (1961-1965), Acting Head of Department of Civil Engineering (1964), Provost - Chief Academic Officer and later Academic Vice President (1965-1974), Acting President of the University of CT (1969, 1972-1973, 1978-1979), and former President of CT Section of the American Society of Civil Engineering.

GARDNER DOW FIELD: dedicated in 1919. Named after Gardner Dow (1899-1919) of New Haven who was killed while playing football for Connecticut Agricultural College (C.A.C.) on September 27, 1919 against New Hampshire State in Durham, N.H. His skull was fractured as he made a flying tackle and he died shortly afterward. Part of the field is now occupied by the new co-op bookstore, and the new library.

GENTRY BUILDING (SCHOOL OF EDUCATION): built in 1960. Named after Charles Burt Gentry (1884-1955), Dean of the University (1940-1950), and acting President (1928-1929 and 1935). Appointed Professor of Agricultural Education and director of teacher training in 1920 when he joined the faculty, and the following year (with Miss Estella Sprague, after whom Sprague Hall is named) he taught a course called "Teaching of Home Economics."

GULLEY HALL: built in 1908. Named after Albert Gurdon Gulley (1848-1917), Professor of Horticulture who joined Connecticut Agricultural College in 1894. The Connecticut Campus, in 1917, called him "one of the most beloved faculty members." He acted as campus landscape gardener and was responsible for most of the ornamental planting in the early days. The building was originally called the Horticultural Building and large greenhouses were once sited immediately south of it.

HALL DORM: built in 1940. Named after William H. Hall (1867-1922), a Trustee (1920-1922). He was a state Senator from West Willington and was influential in getting funds appropriated for C.A.C. at crucial moments to build much needed facilities such as a women's dormitory (Holcomb Hall) and other buildings. He was a member of the House nine times and was a member of the Senate three times.

HAWLEY ARMORY: ^{constructed 1914} ~~built~~ in 1915. Named after First Sergeant Willis Nichols Hawley (1875-1898), Storrs Agricultural College Class of 1898, who died of typhoid fever while serving in the Third Connecticut Volunteers during the Spanish-American War.

H. G. HEWITT PHARMACY BUILDING: built in 1953. Named after Harold George Hewitt (1901-1980), Dean of Pharmacy (1947-1970). Prominent in the American Pharmaceutical Association and the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy, he directed the growth of the School of Pharmacy at UConn and became one of the recognized leaders of pharmacy in the United States. Initiating graduate programs in a wide range of pharmaceutical sciences, he was responsible for the development of the nation's first pharmacy research institute at UConn and served as director (1960-1970).

JONES BUILDING (NUTRITIONAL SCIENCES): built in 1959. Named after Roy E. Jones (1886-1969), Connecticut Extension Poultryman who joined the Storrs Agricultural Experiment Station in 1912 and retired in 1951 as full Professor of Poultry Husbandry. He pioneered the Connecticut Egg Laying Contest and was instrumental in reducing chick mortality by about 30 percent. The building has also been known as "Poultry Science" and "Nutrition."

JORGENSEN AUDITORIUM: built in 1956. Named after Albert Nels Jorgensen

(1899-1978), the longest serving President of the University (1935-1962). Under Jorgensen, the school grew more than at any other time in its history. C.A.C. grew from 804 students in 1935 to a University of 11,643 with four regional campuses in 1962, when Jorgensen retired.

The HARRIET S. JORGENSEN THEATRE is named after his wife.

KELLOG DAIRY CENTER: built in 1991. Named in honor of the chief benefactor, Frances Osborn Kellog (1841-1956), prominent Derby dairy farmer, manufacturer, and art patron. She was also the proprietor of Osbourndale and Bassett Farms.

KLINCK, MERLE S. : NAMED AFTER MERLE S. KLINCK, ^{1989 (SEP 15)} WAS AGRICULTURE

ENGINEERING
LAB

KOONS HALL: built in 1913. Named after Benjamin Franklin Koons (1848-1903), first President of Storrs Agricultural College (1893-1899) and Professor of Natural History. He held degrees from Oberlin and a Ph.D. from Yale. Koons Hall was built as a men's dormitory and renovated into an office building in 1952.

MANCHESTER HALL: built in 1940. Named after Harry Grant Manchester (1868-1957), an alumni Trustee (1907-1942) and a graduate of S.A.C. in 1891. He worked with four presidents during his service to the Board of Trustees and was Chairman from 1909-1941. A year after he graduated he became President of the Alumni Association.

MONTEITH (SOCIAL SCIENCES BUILDING): built in 1959. Named after Henry Ruthven Monteith (1848-1922), a Dartmouth-educated lawyer, teacher and classical scholar who was hired by President Flint to decrease the stress on agriculture at Connecticut Agricultural College and to bring a more classical attitude to campus. As Professor of English and History, he was very popular with students. He was "censor" (advisor) to the Lookout (predecessor to the Daily Campus) and had two yearbooks dedicated to him.

D. C. PHILLIPS BUILDING (COMMUNICATION SCIENCE): built in 1970. Named after David C. Phillips (-1986), head of the Speech Department (1949- 1967). He started a program in speech pathology and audiology in 1951. He was instrumental in getting the new building for the Speech Department.

RATCLIFFE HICKS BUILDING: built in 1951. Named after Ratcliffe Hicks (1843-1906), a Tolland-born lawyer and industrialist. His will left in trust one-fourth of his estate to be used at a later date to establish the Ratcliffe Hicks School of Agriculture. The school had been offered to the town of Tolland, but refused.

ANDRE SCHENKER (SOCIAL SCIENCES) LECTURE HALL: built in 1959. Named after Andre Schenker (1897-1973), Swiss-born Professor of History (1928-1965), graduate of Connecticut Agricultural College (Class of 1922), and first recipient of the Alumni Association award for excellence in teaching (1965). From 1939 through 1949 his nightly radio show "History in the Headlines" on station WTIC was exceedingly popular.

E. O. SMITH HIGH SCHOOL: built in 1958; addition built in 1968. Named after Edwin O. Smith (1871-1960), Instructor at Connecticut Agricultural College from 1901-1916 during which time he taught English and Economics, coached the football team, and was advisor to the Socialist Club. In 1908 he was acting President between Presidents Stimson and Beach. He was secretary to the faculty. He served in the Connecticut General Assembly (the state legislature) as a Representative from Mansfield (1932 to 1960), and was regarded as an authority on the state constitution and on education. He was a strong supporter of the University.

LITTLE STONE HOUSE (near the Storrs Congregational Church): built in the 1930's. Erected by the Connecticut State Grange and presented to Connecticut State College, the structure was dedicated to "American Agriculture." It is constructed of a stone from every town in the state and every state in the nation. Stones from Hawaii and Alaska were added after they achieved statehood.

STORRS HALL: built in 1906. Named after Augustus Storrs (1819-1892) the Mansfield-born principal founder of Storrs Agricultural School. After the name of the school was changed to Connecticut Agricultural College in 1899 there was no memorial to the founder. When the building was erected in 1906, it was named after Augustus Storrs to rectify this. In 1880 he gave 170 acres and a three-story wooden building (the first Whitney Hall) to the state for the founding of Storrs Agricultural School. His brother, Charles gave $6,000. The building, the first brick building on campus, was built as a men's (then called boys') dormitory with 66 two-man rooms. Within two years each room held three students. In 1952 it was renovated for offices and classrooms.

G. SAFFORD TORREY LIFE SCIENCES BUILDING: built in 1961. Named after G. Safford Torrey (1891-1977), a botanist who specialized in Mycology (the study of fungi), and who served the University for 41 years. He joined the faculty in 1915 after receiving two degrees from Harvard. In addition, he served as Secretary to the faculty (1918-1922) and as Registrar (1922-1925). As a hobby he arranged folk tunes and hymns on the carrillon, and regularly performed on the carrillon in the Congregational Church from 1930 to 1964.

VON DER MEHDEN RECITAL HALL: built in 1969. Named after J. Louis von der Mehden, Jr., (1873-1954), an arranger and composer for a decade with Carl Fisher and G. Ricordi and Company of New York. He was a graduate of the Royal Conservatory of Music in Liepzig, Germany, and received a music degree from Yale University in 1924. In 1911 he and his wife bought nine acres in Old Saybrook for $275 and built a house in which they lived for the last 30 years of Mr. von der Mehden's life, even though it had no electricity or oil heat until 1952. Mr. von der Mehden's Paul Revere Symphony, patterned after Longfellow's poem, was composed and orchestrated in 1923. Mrs. von der Mehden's will left the university $500,000 and her husband's scores, diaries and other papers.

WARING CHEMISTRY BUILDING: built in 1959. Named after Charles E.

Waring (1909-1981), Head of the Department of Chemistry (1946-1966), and author of numerous papers on chemical kinetics, free radical reactions, chemiluminescence, and rocket propellants. During World War II, Dr. Waring served as scientific advisor to the First Allied Airborne Army, received the Presidential Citation for Merit (1956), and left on sabbatical for the Naval Ordnance Test Station, China Lake, California as Technical Director and Head of Research (1961).

WHETTEN GRADUATE CENTER: built in 1970. Named after Nathan Laselle Whetten (1900-84), first Dean of the UConn Graduate School (1940-1970). He was a rural sociologist whose books on rural Mexico and Guatamala are considered classics in their field.

GEORGE C. WHITE BUILDING (DAIRY BAR AND ANIMAL INDUSTRIES): built in 1955. Named after George C. White (1887-1954), Professor of Dairy Industry (1913-1943), and Dean of Agriculture (1925-1937). He was known for his research in infectious abortion in cattle, in bovine mastitis and in corn silage feeding.

WILLIAMS HEALTH SERVICE BUILDING (THE INFIRMARY): built in 1950; addition built in 1970. Named after Hilda May Williams (1899-1972), the first nurse to serve in the infirmary. She was supervisor of nurses from 1931 to her retirement in 1969.

WOOD HALL: built in 1940. Named after Walter Childs Wood, M.D. (1864-1953), Representative to the General Assembly from New Canaan (1923-1931); UConn Trustee (1922-1942); and dairy farmer. He helped organize the Connecticut Farm Bureau Federation.

YOUNG BUILDING (COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE AND NATURAL RESOURCES): built in 1953. Named after Wilfred B. Young (1903-1978), former Dean of the College of Agriculture (1944-1966). Dean Young started with what was then the Connecticut Agricultural College in 1931 as a teacher and an extension husbandman. He died in 1978 at age 75.

Dormitories

ALUMNI QUADRANGLE: named after distinguished alumni. The halls were built in 1966; Ryan Refectory was built in 1967.

BELDEN HALL: named after L. Richard Belden (1904-88), a Trustee (1952-1957); a member of the state legislature in the early 1950's, and Executive Secretary to Governors McConaughy and Shannon. Belden graduated from Connecticut Agricultural College in 1927 and was editor-in-chief of THE CONNECTICUT CAMPUS as a senior. He was a member of the debating club and class historian.

BROCK HALL: named after C. Raymond Brock (1896-1988), a Trustee (1948-58) and Vice Chairman of the Board (1953-1958). He was Chairman of the Board of Directors of Brock-Hall Dairy Company, the first distributor of vitamin D milk in the country. Brock was president of the Alumni Association from 1929-1931 and received the Distinguished Alumni Award in 1963. He was made an honorary Life Member of the University of Connecticut Foundation Board in 1975 - a board of which he was an original member.

EDDY HALL: named after Willard Eddy (1906-88), a Trustee (1941-1949) elected by the Alumni. He graduated from C.A.C. in 1928 after being captain of the football team, and President of the Student Senate and of the Freshman Class. He was also a member of the Druids, a secret society that honored students who were leaders in student activities.

RYAN REFECTORY: named after J. Ray Ryan (1906-88), a Trustee (1944-1964) and a graduate of C.A.C. in 1930. He was President of the Alumni Association from 1938-1940 and received the Distinguished Alumni Award in 1957. Ryan was a Trustee of the Alumni Association from 1943-1963 and was Chairman of the Albie Booth Memorial Game (a football game between the New York Giants and New York Jets) for New Haven charities. While at C.A.C. he was a member of the football, basketball and baseball teams and captain of the basketball team in his senior year.

WATSON HALL: named after Elmer S. Watson (1908-1971), a Trustee (1945-1965). He graduated from C.A.C. in 1929, when he and his brother, Arthur formed an insurance agency. He was Commissioner of Motor Vehicles from 1945-1949 and served as a state Senator (fourth district) from 1951-1959 and as Senate Majority Leader 1957-1959.

EAST CAMPUS

BUCKLEY HALL: built in 1969. Named after John Buckley (1885-1959), a Trustee of the University (1926-1940), Executive Secretary to Governor Marcus H. Holcomb (for whom Holcomb Hall is named) from 1917 to 1921, and U.S. District Attorney in Connecticut from 1924 to 1927.

GRANGE HALL: built in 1950. Named after the Connecticut State Grange which was a strong supporter of the University, especially in its early days.

HICKS HALL: built in 1950. Named after Elizabeth Hicks (1884-1974), painter, philanthropist, friend of the University and a consultant on the establishment of the Ratcliffe Hicks School of Agriculture (see Ratcliffe-Hicks Building), named after her father.

HOLCOMB HALL: built in 1922. Named after Marcus Hensley Holcomb (1844-1932), lawyer, judge, Attorney General of Connecticut (1906-1907) and Governor (1915-1921). Because he felt that a state legislation which had appropriated funds for a girls' dormitory was illegal, he vetoed it. At a later session the bill was reintroduced legally, passed and signed. The dormitory was named Holcomb Hall, after the Governor who had once vetoed it.

SHIPPEE HALL: built in 1962. Named after Lester Emerson Shippee (1894-1988), banker, Chairman of the Board of Connecticut Bank and Trust (1963-1966), member of the UConn Board of Trustees (1946-1959) and Chairman of the Board (1953-1959). He was the first president of the UConn Foundation.

SPRAGUE HALL: built in 1942. Named after M. Estella Sprague (1870-1940), Dean of the Division of Home Economics and Dean of Women from 1920 to 1926. She had been Professor of Home Economics since 1917. She was the first woman extension worker in Connecticut, and during World War I, she was state director of home economics for the Federal Food Administration.

WHITNEY HALL: built in 1939. Named after Edwina Whitney (1869-1972), University librarian (1900-1934) and Instructor in German and English. When she retired in 1934 she was given an honorary degree of Master of Literature. Her father, Edwin, in 1867 built a three-story wooden building at the corner of North Eagleville Road and Route 195, across from the Congregational Church, as a home for Civil War orphans. That building, in 1881, became the dormitory, laboratory and classroom of Storrs Agricultural School.

GRADUATE DORMITORIES: Named after Connecticut towns, cities and villages. They were built in 1970.

ASHFORD, BRANFORD, COLCHESTER, DERBY, ENFIELD, FARMINGTON, GUILFORD, HEBRON, JEWETT CITY, KILLINGLY, LYME, MILFORD, NORWALK, PRESTON, QUINEBAUG, RIDGEFIELD

HILLTOP: Named after Revolutionary War heroes from Connecticut. They were built in 1971.

ELLSWORTH HALL: Named after Oliver Ellsworth (1745-1807) of Windsor, a delegate to the Federal Constitutional Convention in 1787. He played a major role in bringing about the "Connecticut Compromise" which provided for a bicameral legislature that would mean greater equality in representation. Ellsworth was a U.S. Senator from Connecticut from 1789-1796 and Chief Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court from 1796 to 1800.

PUTNAM REFECTORY: Named after Israel Putnam (1717-1790), a Captain in the French and Indian War and a Major General under George Washington during the Revolution. He commanded Connecticut troops at Lexington and Concord in April of 1775 and at the battle of Bunker Hill. He is supposed to have said, "Don't fire until you see the whites of their eyes."

HALE HALL: Named after Nathan Hale (1755-1776). American patriot who was hanged by the British for being a spy. He was born in Coventry and was graduated in 1773 from Yale. He taught school in East Haddam and in New London. He became a captain in Knowlton's Rangers in 1776. He was on a mission for General Washington when he was hanged.

McMAHON HALL: Named after Brien McMahon (1903-1952), Democratic U.S. Senator from Connecticut (1945-1952). An authority on atomic energy, he was responsible for civilian (rather than military) control of the Atomic Energy Commission. He urged international control of atom weapons, and was considered for nomination to the U.S. presidency but illness interfered.

The annual Brien McMahon Lectures at UConn (started 1957) are named after him.

NORTH CAMPUS (The Jungle): built in 1950. Eight of the eleven dormitories in this quadrangle are named for the counties of Connecticut:

HARTFORD, NEW HAVEN, NEW LONDON, FAIRFIELD, WINDHAM, LITCHFIELD, MIDDLESEX, TOLLAND

The other three are named after former Connecticut Governors: Baldwin, McConaughy, Hurley.

These dorms are called The Jungle because they were over-crowded and noisy, originally housing male veterans going to school on the G.I. Bill. They house the largest number of students on campus.

BALDWIN HALL: Named after Raymond E. Baldwin, (1893--), Republican Governor of Connecticut (1939-1941; and 1943-1946); U.S. Senator from Connecticut (1946-1949); and Chief Justice of the Connecticut Supreme Court (1959-1963). He was the only person since Jonathan Trumbull (1710-1788) to hold all three top state posts. He was chairman of the state's Constitutional Convention in 1965, the first successful convention since 1818. He signed the bill in 1939 changing the name of Connecticut State College to the University of Connecticut.

McCONAUGHY HALL: Named after James Lukens McConaughy (1887-1948), Republican Governor of Connecticut from 1947 until his death. He was President of Wesleyan University (1925-1943) and Lieutenant Governor (1939-1940) under Governor Baldwin.

HURLEY HALL: Named after Robert Augustine Hurley (1895-1968), Democratic Governor of Connecticut (1941-1943). A building contractor, he became Commissioner of the State Department of Public Works during the Depression and from 1937-1940 he was involved with $500 million worth of construction on 150 buildings. Under this program the University built Wilbur Cross Library, the School of Home Economics, and Manchester, Whitney, Sprague and Wood Halls.

NORTHWEST QUADRANGLE (The FRATS): built in 1950. Named after 19th Century Connecticut industrialists. This quadrangle housed 23 fraternities at one time.

BATTERSON HALL: Named after James G. Batterson (1823-1901), who founded The Travelers Insurance Company and was a leading contractor in granite and stone works. He built the State Capitol building, the Vanderbilt Mansion in Hyde Park, N.Y., and Hartford High School among other buildings. Batterson invented a machine that polished granite and was the architect of the soldiers' monument at Gettysburg.

GOODYEAR HALL: Named after Charles Goodyear (1800-1860) of New Haven, who invented a system of vulcanizing rubber. With his brother, Henry, he established a rubber mill in Naugatuck in 1843, obtained patents to process rubber in most European countries and was largely responsible for establishing the rubber industry there. He received the Grand Medal of the London World's Fair in 1851 for his work.

HANKS HALL: Named after Benjamin and Rodney Hanks, 18th Century American inventors born on Hanks Hill in Mansfield, CT. Rodney (1782-1846) invented machines for spinning silk with water power and built the nation's first silk mill in Mansfield. (It was taken to Dearborn, Michigan, by Henry Ford for his museum.) Benjamin (1755-1824), Rodney's older brother, cast cannons for the Revolutionary War and patented a tower clock powered by wind.

ROGERS HALL: Named after Simeon, Asa, and William Rogers who were pioneers in the silver industry in Connecticut in the mid-nineteenth century. In 1847 they became the first to use "electroplating" in the manufacture of silver-plated flatware on a commercial basis.

RUSSELL HALL: Named after Samuel Russell (1789-1862) of Middletown who was one of the pioneers in the China Trade. He established Russell and Company in Canton, China, which became one of the most celebrated firms in the China Trade.

TERRY HALL: Named after Eli Terry (1772-1852) who operated the first clock factory in America in Terryville, CT. He was born in East Windsor and built his first clock in 1792. In 1807 he established, with Seth Thomas and Silas Hoadley, a clock-making firm that produced ten to twenty clocks at a time by using waterpower. In 1810 he established his own firm and patented approximately ten improvements on clocks.

WRIGHT HALL: Named after Benjamin Wright (1770-1842), Wethersfield-born engineer who was officially designated as "The father of American Civil Engineering" by the Society of American Civil Engineering. He was chief engineer on the construction of the Erie Canal, the St. Lawrence Ship Canal, and the New York and Erie Railroads.

SOUTH CAMPUS: built in 1952. Beard, Crandall, Crawford, French, Merritt, Stowe, Wheeler. Named after famous women from Connecticut.

BEARD HALL: Named after Mary Ritter Beard of New Milford (1876-1958), a historian and author. She participated in womens' rights and labor movements and wrote four books about women and their role in labor history. She also co-authored, with her husband Charles, seven books on American history.

CRANDALL HALL: Named after Prudence Crandall of Canterbury (1803-1889), a civil rights leader. She opened a school for black girls in 1832 and was brought to trial under the "Black Law" which forbade out-of-state students in schools unless approved by the town. Due to increased harassment, she closed the school, married the Rev. Calvin Philleo and moved to Elks Falls, Kansas in 1834.

CRAWFORD HALL: Named after Sara Buek Crawford (1876-1949) of Westport, the first woman elected to a Connecticut state office. She served as Secretary of the State under Republican Governor Raymond Baldwin from 1939-1941. She also served as a state Representative from Westport from 1925-1927 and from 1931-1935.

FRENCH HALL: Named after Mildred Pearl French (1891-1980) born in Grande, Oregon. She was Dean of the School of Home Economics from 1928-1942 and Dean of Women from 1928-1953. In 1933 she became the first woman passenger to fly around South America. Her trip began and ended in Miami and took six weeks.

MERRITT HALL: Named after Alice P. Merritt (1876-1950), the first woman state Senator in Connecticut. She served from 1924-1928 and then became active in the Girl Scouts. She was a Girl Scout Commissioner and was appointed to the Hartford Girl Scout Council in 1947. During World War I, Mrs. Merritt was a Red Cross Motor Corps Officer. The Alice P. Merritt Girl Scout Camp in East Hartland is dedicated in her honor.

STOWE HALL: Named after Harriet Elizabeth Beecher Stowe (1811-1896), born in Litchfield, and author of Uncle Tom's Cabin, published in 1852. She became adamantly abolitionist after her family moved to Cincinnati in 1833. She owned a home in Hartford in the literary colony of "Nook Farm" with Mark Twain and others.

WHEELER HALL: Named after Maude Knapp Wheeler (1873-1947) a Professor of Home Economics and Institute Lecturer at Connecticut Agricultural College. She came to Storrs in 1897. Her husband Charles Augustus Wheeler, a Professor in Mathematics, designed the first water tower at C.A.C. and also laid out a trolley railway route from Willimantic to campus.

TOWERS DORMITORIES: Built in 1961.

ALLEN HOUSE: Named after Willard H. Allen (1894-1957), a graduate of Connecticut Agricultural College in 1916. He was a member of the track and football teams and an honor student. He was the first student to major in Poultry Husbandry. The Willard H. Allen Scholarship fund was established in his name. He served as President of the Alumni Association (1938-1940) and received the Distinguished Alumni Award in 1963.

COLT HOUSE: Named after Samuel Colt (1814-1862), Hartford-born inventor who manufactured the first practical revolving firearm in Eli Whitney's factory in Whitneyville, CT, and after 1847 in Hartford.

FENWICK HOUSE: Named after Lady Alice Boteler Fenwick, the wife of Colonel George Fenwick, Governor of the Saybrook settlement at the mouth of the Connecticut River from 1639-1644. Lady Fenwick was the first noblewoman to settle in Connecticut. Saybrook was originally planned as a baronial center for aristocratic sympathizers of Oliver Cromwell. She died in what is now Old Saybrook shortly after the birth of her daughter in 1645, and is buried there.

HAMILTON HOUSE: Named after Dr. Alice Hamilton (1869-1970), a Haddam physician, considered the founder of the profession of occupational medicine. She had much to do with recognizing the occupational hazards of certain jobs, such as black lung disease for coal miners, and her work helped set safety standards for industry.

KELLER HOUSE: Named after Helen Adams Keller (1880-1968), an internationally known and admired writer and lecturer despite becoming blind and deaf before she was two years old. She died in Westport, Connecticut.

KINGSTON HOUSE: Named after the Kingston Club, a group of about a dozen sophomore men at the Hartford Campus in 1961. The club was named after the Kingston Trio, very popular male folk singers of the time. When the Hartford Campus sophomores moved to the Storrs campus, they requested permission to live together and named their house the Kingston House -- despite University administrators' desire to name all houses after famous Connecticut persons. Kingston House was placed on social probation for one semester in the first week the house was open as a result of a forbidden champagne party discovered by officials when they saw dozens of champagne bottles in the house's trash barrels the following morning.

MORGAN HOUSE: Named after John Pierpont Morgan (1837-1913), a Hartford-born multi-millionaire financier who was among the richest men in the world. In 1907 he averted a widespread U.S. financial collapse after a Wall Street panic by mobilizing the banking strength of New York.

VINTON HOUSE: Named after Annie Vinton (1871-1961), a long-time resident of Mansfield who was very interested in education. She served in the General Assembly from Mansfield from 1923 to 1927 and was a member of the appropriations committee. The Annie E. Vinton Elementary School on Route 32 was named for her.

WADE HOUSE: Named after Susanna Wade, one of the original proprietors of Mansfield. She inherited land in Mansfield from her husband before the division of Windham and Mansfield in 1702. Later, in 1709 and 1710, she acquired four other pieces of land in Mansfield, according to Mansfield town records. Land ownership by women in that period was very rare. Little more is known about Mrs. Wade, including dates of her birth and death.

WEST CAMPUS: Built in 1955. Named after Trustees.

ALSOP HALL: Named after Joseph Wright Alsop (Middletown) (1876-1953), a Trustee from 1909-1942. He graduated from Yale with a degree in science and was a member of the state legislature from 1907-1913. A farmer and president of The Hartford County Mutual Fire Insurance Company, he was also Commissioner of the state public utilities commission from 1917-1943. Alsop "B" is referred to as the Romance Languages House.

HOLLISTER HALL: Named after George H. Hollister (1882-1971), a Trustee (1927-1943) and a graduate of Connecticut Agricultural College in 1902 with an A.B. in Agriculture. Originally from Medina, Ohio, Hollister moved to Washington, Connecticut. He was interested in "the science of Horticulture" and studied it with great interest. He was Park Commissioner for the city of Hartford.

HOOK HALL: Named after James W. Hook (New Haven) (1884-1957), a Trustee (1936-1954). He took over as Vice President and Chairman of the Board of Trustees from Samuel Spencer in 1949 and served four years. President of United Illuminating of New Haven, Hook was the resident advisor to President Roosevelt's NRA in 1933.

SPENCER HALL: Named after Samuel R. Spencer, (Suffield) (1871-1961), a Trustee (1933-1949) and Chairman of the Board (1943-1949). He was a state Senator in 1927 and was Lt. Governor under Wilbur Cross from 1931-1932. He also was State Treasurer at this time. Spencer served on the Liquor Control Commission when Prohibition was repealed in 1933.
