HISTORIC PRODUCTION SUCCESSFULLY GIVEN

"TYRANNY OF TEARS" CLEVERLY EXECUTED

Small Cast but Each Plays His Part Well—Coaching Deserves Credit

"Tyranny of Tears," the first of a series of plays to be given this year by the Dramatic Club, was presented in Hawley Armory, Monday evening, November 24th. The production was a grand success and forecasts a most prosperous year for the Dramatic Club.

The general custom of presenting farce comedies has been broken away from and Miss Wallace showed splendid taste in choosing "The Tyranny of Tears." In the picking of her cast Miss Wallace is to highly congratulate and the results of her able coaching showed up in the actors and acting.

Miss Loretta Guilfoile, as Mrs. Parbury, a loving but jealous wife, acted her extremely hard part in an excellent manner. William Maloney as Mr. Parbury did well, considering his domestic complications. Miss Kay Potter as Mr. Parbury's secretary, and Earl Crampton as an old friend of Mr. Parbury's, furnished plenty of trouble for the married people, but it all resulted in everyone's happiness. Paul Manwaring as Colonel Armitage furnished plenty of amusement, and Robert Hughes served the red champagne as well as any butler could do.

The play was not only a dramatic success but a financial success as well. Total receipts amounted to about $150. Manager Webb arranged to have advertisements in the program and in this manner the programs paid for themselves.

THE NUTMEG

The Nutmeg is getting on the skids and everything points to a most successful year-book. Many of the male students and faculty have already bought pledges and according to Manager Maloney, the Co-eds have pledged 100 per cent strong.

The managing board has announced that the individual who scores the most points in the coming inter-class basketball series will be presented with a free copy of the Nutmeg.

LAST SCRIMMAGE HELD UNDER BUNTING CANOPY

FOOTBALL SEASON ENDED NOVEMBER 25

In Spite of Weather Formal Dance Proves a Huge All Round Success

The football season ended when on the evening of November 25, the last scrimmage took place on not a field marked off with white lines, but a floor (which incidentally is painted with black lines) above which stretched a canopy of blue and white bunting in basketweave effect.

The usual football togs were exchanged for uniforms of a more distinctive cut, the only protective armor worn being the white and shining breastplate of stiffly starched linen. This, although designed to cover the most vulnerable spot, a certain pumping station, seemed ineffectual in some cases as rumor has it that certain of the men are still suffering from injuries to that part of their anatomies, inflicted by their tulle-clad opponents. The resulting score bids fair to be a tie, although official returns are not in at the time this goes to press. The time of the game consumed some five hours.

Pickett's Orchestra furnished the songs and cheers which spurred the participants on.

Cosy, attractive and artistically decorated benches along the side lines awaited the weary players between the halves, or more properly, the eighteenth.

The spectators on the bleachers above the canopy were few, but were duly impressed with what they witnessed.

The weather was very moist but that in no way dampened the enthusiasm of the lovers of the sport. It did however offer difficulties in the way of importing and exporting some members of the visiting team, but these were overcome with comparative ease.

It is estimated that the affair netted the Athletics Association as much as any game of the season. About sixty five couples attended and it was the first formal dance since the war. Taking everything into consideration it was a huge success.

The success was financial as well as social. The percentage of profit was lessened, however, because of the new but attractive decorations, the old ones having "walked off." The amount cleared, $21.50, was turned over to the Athletic Association.

EXCURSION TO KINGSTON SHOWS COLLEGE SPIRIT

"FOLLOW THE BOYS" BY NUMEROUS STUDENTS

Victory Over R. I. State Celebrated in New London—At the "Far East"

A striking exhibition of college spirit was shown when two thirds of the college body followed their team to Kingston and to victory. It was with that determination and pep, backed by the student body, which enabled our out-weighted gridironers to bring home the pigskin from Rhode Island, a feat accomplished for the first time in eighteen years.

The student body left the Dining hall at eight, amid the cheers of those who could not go and with banners flying, marched to Eagleville. Here the dumbfounded station agent with the aid of wife, paper and pencil strove to make correct change but the multitude of five dollar bills proved too much for Eagleville currency, for soon he had run out of pennies which caused the price of tickets to rise three cents. By this time he was all excited, for Jaynes gave him a five and the agent handed in return the ticket, the change and also the five dollar bill much to Jaynes' astonishment, but with pity and a parting sigh he handed back the bill, much to the agent's surprise.

Soon the distant whistle of the fast C. V. was heard as she puffed around the curve and bellowed down the straight-away. Amid the squeaking of rusty brakes and cheers the crowd boarded the noted train and were carried away, while the inhabitants of Eagleville (both of them) watched that worn out engine slowly but surely fade into the distance.

No sooner was everyone settled down than the train pulled into "Willy" but the lure of the big city was too much; those that did not rise early enough for breakfast rushed madly to the "Greasy Spoon," and were yanked away by the shrill whistle of the moving train and sat eating the rest of their interrupted breakfast on the steps of the rear car.

The noise of that merry crowd stopped the waysiders in their tracks for never before was the C. V. known to have four cars on it and crowded full of people that sounded full. As the train neared Norwich Ricketts began to get happy for he was nearing the scenes of his childhood and as the train pulled into the station, jumped off in hopes of seeing some one he

WAITS EIGHTEEN YEARS TO GET BEST OF RIVAL

CONNECTICUT TRIMS RHODE ISLAND STATE

Game Keeps Spectators Guessing Till Last Minute—Score 7—3. Goodearl Injured

The Connecticut Aggies triumphed over their old rivals Rhode Island on the Kingston Field by the score of 7—3 in one of the most exciting games ever seen on the Kingston gridiron. Both teams were evenly matched and it was a battle royal from whistle to whistle but the Aggies outplayed and outgamed their opponents in all branches of the contest and deserved the victory that they pulled out of the fire in the last few minutes of the last quarter.

Two hundred Aggie rooters followed the squad to Kingston and cheered madly to urge their heroes on. The engineers started with a rush and before the blue and white eleven realized the danger they had the ball on our 12 yard line. Here the Aggies braced and threw the Engineers back without gain, taking the ball from them on downs. Hopwood tried to boot the sphere out of danger but was forced to kick into the terrific wind that swept the field so that the ball did not go very far and Rhode Island was again in position to score. Rhode Island could not make any headway against the Aggie line so Johnson dropped back to the 30 yard line and booted the ball over the goal posts for Rhode Island's three points.

There was no more scoring until the last few minutes of play and altho the Nutmeg eleven clearly outplayed their opponents in the 2nd and 3rd periods, luck broke against them and they were unable to push across a tally. With hope almost gone, luck turned and a misplay on the part of the Rhode Island center gave the Aggies their chance to score, which they accepted with a rush and by means of a forward pass and three

SUMMARY OF SEASON SHOWS MANY INJURIES

TEAM PLAYS UNDER SERIOUS HANDICAPS

Only Two Victories but Team Feels That It Has Been Successful

For the first time in three years, the Connecticut Agricultural College was represented on the gridiron and from the Aggie standpoint the outcome of the season was a huge success. To be sure it lost six out of eight games played but the mere fact that it handed Rhode Island a trouncing that will live long in the memories of two hundred Aggie supporters that followed the eleven to Kingston and the fact that it stuck to its guns thru almost insurmountable odds makes the college proud of her sturdy lads that fought for the blue and white and brought back a Rhode Island pigskin for her trophy room.

Our eleven was started last February when Everett Dow, '21, was elected at an A. A. meeting to manage the affairs of the eleven. As it was against the customs of the college to have a Junior manage a varsity team Dow resigned and Paul Manwaring '20 manager elect of the 1918 team, who had just come back from the service, was elected to the managership, and Dow was installed as Assistant Manager. Manwaring and Dow immediately set to work and although they started late and experienced considerable trouble they furnished an excellent schedule of nine games for the varsity and five for the second team.

The next step in the work was the securing of R. J. Guyer and M. R. Swartz by the faculty to coach the squad. They started with a bunch of green men who had never seen service in intercollegiate football and were sadly in need of experience but by patient effort they developed a squad that came through and trimmed Boston University and our dear old rivals from that little state next door. Coach Guyer started to mould his eleven last spring by holding spring practice but the fact that a number of the men were on the baseball squad decreased the spirit and he did not progress to any great extent.

The opening of school this fall found fifty huskies on the field fighting for a chance to represent their alma mater on the white lined field. Gleason, Hopwood and Maguire were the only letter men to find their way back to Storrs and the coaches were confronted with the problem of building up a brand new team and installing a new coaching system. The first game was a hard fought affair in which weight an dexperience told and New Hampshire carried off the bacon by the score of 13 to 0.

This game was a hard blow to the Aggies as their old pal and star center, Gardner Dow, died that night as a result of a blow received in the game. All the colleges on the schedule expected them to cancel the remaining games but the Aggie spirit did not know there was such a word as quit in the dictionary and the squad unanimously voted to carry on.

Massachusetts Aggies met them after a short week of practice and although they led at one time the condition of the squad told in the last quarter and Massachusetts rolled up a touchdown and a field goal in the last quarter and defeated them 15 to 7. Beside the game they sustained another big loss in this contest as Maier received a bad knee that laid him out for the rest of the season.

The following week left the only real black mark against the 1919 season. The team journeyed to Hartford and fell down before the Trinity eleven in one of the wierdest exhibitions of football ever staged on a college gridiron. Connecticut handed them the game by wretched handling of the sphere and all around poor playing. The officials that were to handle the game failed to appear and the substituted men were incapable. The injuries in this game amounted to a broken nose by Prentice and a badly sprained ankle that put Averill on the side lines for the rest of the season.

Stevens proved too clever in the next contest and rolled up 37 points on a badly weakened eleven. The first quarter was very even and the Tech boys could only get two points but injuries to Prescott and Gleason left big gaps in Connecticut's defense and Stevens ran wild in the second and third quarters. Holy Cross slaughtered them in more ways than one. The final score was 67 to 0 but that was the least of their troubles. Ricketts had a piece of his hip bone chipped off and Gleason had his hand badly torn placing these two men on the hospital list until the Rhode Island game. Four other men were injured to a slight degree and the whole squad was battered as a result of the game.

The following week saw a hurried call for recruits to fill the gaps left by injuries and when the whistle opened the New York Aggie game Goodearl and Patterson were included in the lineup although they had only had three days' practice. The result was 33 to 7 in favor of New York but this game proved to be the turning point as the Aggies found themselves in the last quarter of this game and started to build the fight that enabled them to come out on the long end in the next two games.

Boston University came down from the Hub with a perfect record expecting the easiest kind of a time with the Aggies but to their dismay they trailed back to Boston with a 7 to 0 defeat marring their record.

St. Stephens must have read of the outcome of the Boston game because early Monday morning Manwaring got a telegram cancelling the game because three of their players were injured. It was hard for the Aggies to solve St. Stephens spirit that it should cancel a game for three players when our boys were continuing the fight after they had lost one of their comrades and seven more were on the sidelines with injuries.

After a week's rest the squad followed by two hundred staunch supporters boarded a special train at Eagleville and proceeded to Kingston where they ended a great season by handing Rhode Island a bitter 7 to 3 pill.

INTERCLASS BASKETBALL

The old time class rivalry in basketball will begin Monday, December 8, at 7:00 p.m. when the Seniors play the Juniors and the Sophomores play the School of Agriculture. The basketball schedule is in line with the education department, to have every student take part in some form of athletics.

No basketball varsity men will be allowed to take part in the inter-class games this year. The halves will be 15 minute periods.

RHODE ISLAND GAME

line plunges the Aggies smashed Rhode Island's hope and gave the Aggies their first victory over the Engineers in a number of years. The Aggie rooters went wild when the whistle blew ending the game and staged a wild snake dance around the field and between the goal posts.

Mitchell gave one of the most sensational exhibitions of tackling that it has been the luck of the Aggie rooters to witness and his work alone was enough to take the heart out of the Rhode Island backfield. Time and time again he smeared Rhode Islands chances to gain after they had broken thru the line and seemed destined to make big gains. On the offense Hopwood's spectacular end running, Murphy's terrific line plunging and Baxter's clever handling of the team were largely responsible for our victory. "Zunk" Prescott was in every play and deserves a world of credit for his backing up of the line. Murphy, Rhode Island's star back and captain, proved to be the shining light of the home team and he caused the Aggies a heap of trouble, making practically all of the gains for his team. The game was fought on a field that was swept by a high wind that made punting hard and caused forward passes to go wild.

BLACKGUARDS SOON TO PUT ON MINSTREL SHOW

P. N. MANWARING TO BE INTERLOCUTOR

Clever End Men Well Known Among the College Students Soloists and Other Musicians

The Blackguards are working hard every night on their first offering since 1912 and a gala show may be expected by the faculty and students of the college.

The show will be patterned after the old time minstrel show and music and wit of the approved minstrel type will be rendered by a competent cast. The first part will consist of song hits of the day and red-hot jokes and local hits. Paul Manwaring will act as interlocutor and help govern the dispursing of fun. The end men will probably line up in the personages of Connie Mahoney, Zunk Prescott, Racket Ricketts, Brubby Dow, Buck Van Buren, Agate Wood and Shorty Downs. Phil Dean and Dick Hughes will serve in the capacity of soloists.

The second part of the show consists of a varied mixture of offerings. Fiddlers Four will render music of both the classical and rag variety. Scoop Manwaring has a message to deliver to all oppressed women and such men as are interested. And the Musical Bell Hops will take the crowd to harmony land for a few minutes.

The musical program is under the supervision of Bill Gerhardt who will be ably assisted by a ten piece orchestra.

The game by quarters:

FIRST QUARTER

Rhode Island won the toss and chose to receive the ball. Hopwood kicked off to Murphy who managed to twist and squirm his way back to the forty yard line before he was downed. Goodearl was picked from behind on the play and received a badly sprained ankle. He was game to the core tho, and after a few minutes' rest reentered the game.

Rhode Island tried our line but found it to be a stonewall so they shot the next play around Goodearl's end. Altho he was almost unable to touch his foot to the ground he threw himself into the interference and smeared it so that Hopwood was able to get the tackle, Johnson making only two yards on the play. Goodearl was again laid low and forced to leave the game. Ricketts went in at right end. Murphy smashed thru on a skin tackle play for nine yards making a first down. Here the Engineers gave the Aggie rooters a bad scare by shooting a forward pass that fooled Connecticut's backs and it looked as if they would get a touchdown but Hopwood headed him off on Connecticut's 20 yard line and pulled him down.

Twice Muphy tried our line in vain

MEN'S STUDENT COUNCIL PROVES AN ACTIVE BODY

CONDUCT OF DORMS UNDER ITS CONTROL

Guides Action of Students. To Make Rules for Freshman Banquet This Year

The Student Council is busy. During the Thanksgiving recess both Dormitories were equipped with new electric light bulbs. The ones in Koons Hall are etched with a K and those in Storrs Hall with an S. Hereafter bulbs in the Dormitories must be etched.

A Dormitory committee composed of D. J. Scott, R. J. Chaffee, and P. L. Putnam was appointed to look after the Dorms. It will be the duty of this committee to receive complaints from the students and to act upon said complaints to the best of their ability thus rendering conditions as satisfactory as possible in the Dorms.

The Council also drew up the rules for the Freshmen banquet; that is, the following committee representing the Student Council drew up the rules which will be published soon. The committee consisted of Earle Moore, D. J. Scott, F. J. Mahoney, N. W. Alexander and W. F. Quigg.

A committee consisting of F. Bauer, F. J. Mahoney and J. P. Johnson was appointed to assist in putting the College Book Store on a Co-operative basis. The Board of Trustees voted to let the Student body take over the book store and the surplus profits from the store are to be used for paying salaries of assistant coaches.

Up to date and for the first three years about $1500 will be derived from the project; after this time lapses, a new contract will be drawn up and larger receipts made possible. The contract will appear in a later issue of the Campus.

ANIMAL HUSBANDRY NOTES

Two Berkshire barrows bred by the College are being shown at the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago. One of these was fitted at the College, the other by Mr. Copeland of Storrs; both are being shown by Flintstone Farm of Dalton, Mass.

Prof. H. L. Garrigus and A. G. Skinner of the Animal Husbandry Department are attending the International at Chicago.

An informal social was held in Room 41, Storrs Hall, during the holidays. One of the farm hands gave an interesting talk on "Oxen." Beano Graf explained the "Ins and Outs of Rabbit Hunting." Major Ferris was scheduled to speak on the "Merits and Demerits of Room 41," but was unable to attend. Coach Swartz outlined the plans of the ping-pong and tiddly-winks teams for the coming year. Bill Gronwoldt broke up the party by singing "Oh, Buttermilk, where is thy sting?"

PSI EPSILON PI

The annual New England Convention of the Phi Epsilon Pi fraternity was held in Boston, November 27th, 1919. Emanuel Shulmann, Abraham Klein, Louis Traurig, Victor Rome, Milton Katz, Louis Resnick, Lionel Faulkner, Samuel Cohen of the local chapter attended. On Wednesday evening an informal banquet followed by the initiation of three new men to the Omicron Chapter at Tufts College took place. The banquet was held at the River Bank Court where all the fraters experienced a wonderful time. The following afternoon a business session was held at the River Bank Court. Thursday evening a formal dance was held in the ball room of the Copley-Plaza. Fraters were present from all the New England chapters which include, University of Maine, Tufts College, Brown, Rhode Island State and Connecticut.

The annual National convention of fraternity will be held in Pittsburg. Representatives will be present from all the twenty-three chapters. William Penn Hotel will serve as the scene of activities, which will include a formal dance and banquet. There will also take place a smoker at the Eta Chapter House.

TENNIS ELECTIONS

With the prospects of a good tennis team in mind, the best eight men as shown by the last tournament, met and elected Griswold captain and as Bridges was manager of the Tennis Association he was given the power to act as manager of the coming season's team and to get the games. It is hoped that we will have on our schedule New Hampshire State, Rhode Island State, Wesleyan, Trinity and Brown at least.

Tennis should be one of the sports here as it is the one game that can be played after one graduates from college and is being pushed by our alumni for Professor Lamson has offered to take the team on one of its trips in his car, while E. C. Eaton, '11, has offered to pay the expenses of a trip.

The prospects of the coming year are good for there is fine material from which can be developed with a little training a team that should make a creditable showing with the above Colleges.

ETA LAMBDA SIGMA

A. G. Eaton ex-'22, and now of Dartmouth, underwent an operation for appendicitis recently and is now on the road to recovery.

Walter Clark '18 of the Extension Department has recently purchased a Buick roadster.

William Shea '16 has recently completed the construction of a modern cement dairy barn. The barn is of the latest design and has accommodations for 50 head of stock.

Philip Jaquith spent one day last week calling on George Stewart at Spring Brook Farms of Waterbury.

Andrew Shenken ex-'21 spent a few days last week in Hartford calling on Bros. Harry Hanks, James Goodrich and Ernest Carpenter. Mr. Shenken expects to spend a few days on the Hill in the near future.

CREDIT WHERE CREDIT IS DUE

In the face of tremendous odds, Connecticut's eleven has completed a successful season. A brief resume of the misfortunes which befell the squad during the season will bring home to us more forcibly the meaning of this statement. In our first game one of our players lost his life; in the second game a man was so badly injured that he was unable to play except for a few minutes, for the remainder of the season; in the third game another man was put out for the season; in the fourth game our best line plunger and hardest tackler was injured so that he did not play until the last game of the season. Then the team went up against the heavy Holy Cross eleven, and two more of our boys were carried from the field—and they did not play until the last game. In the first home game still another man was laid low for the season. In addition to these injuries two men received broken shoulders in scrimmage.

The game against Boston University was the turning point. The men on the gridiron gathered their scattered resources, the occupants of the grand stand cheered and everyone fought for all he was worth, either mentally or physically. The jinx was chased away, and we came through with a victory. Two records were broken; we won—B. U. lost, and that victory gave the boys in blue the courage and self-confidence which brought home the bacon from Kingston. Even one more casualty in the squad didn't dampen our spirits.

The boys took a rest on November 15 which apparently was just what they needed to put on the finishing touches for the contest with Rhode Island. Then the real old pep began to crop out. The whole community talked and thought football. If you had told a football man that Rhode Island was going to win, he would have knocked you down. The night before we had an old time mass meeting—enthusiasm ran high—the cheering was loud and lusty.

Then we went to Kingston and gave our old rivals the first trimming we had given them in eighteen years. That victory spelled SUCCESS for us—it meant more coming as it did after so much hard luck and so many defeats. The only thing which marred the victory was one injury.

Let us give credit where it is due. Be grateful to the gridiron heroes, whose courage, pluck and endurance made success possible. Be grateful to the men who shaped and moulded the squad into a fighting machine. And don't forget those who fed up the boys just before that first victory. Maybe the jinx was broken at the Valentine dinner table.

VACATIONS

Vacations are the spice of college life. Education is a wonderful thing and the more of it you get the broader you grow in the wisdom of the world; but he must be an unnatural wonder who can study all the time.

Probably very few college men realize what an education means until they have finished it. Anyhow, very few know what home means until they get away from it and it seems mighty good to get back there after keeping bachelor's hall in a rabbit warren dormitory. Of course, there are other reasons why vacations are so welcome. We go home to get a "feed"; to see "The Girl;" to get some "cash" or for other well known and excellent reasons, some of which are more or less flimsy.

But the fact remains that without an occasional rest from our labors, we would be a pretty punk bunch of workers in any line or occupation and a student needs a change almost more than any other man. Brain work is more exhausting and wearing than a great many occupations that require only manual labor.

It behooves us then to take a vacation as such and to give ourselves a complete change from our customary routine. Thanksgiving is over now, and we ought to be in good shape to continue the fight and keep up our end of the percentage in studies. Do your Christmas shopping early and see if you can find some good marks before that vacation. Make some New Year's resolutions now to keep up ahead of the class and when New Years comes, it won't be so hard to do it.

A daughter, Grace Elizabeth, was born Oct. 28th at Hampton, Va., to Mr. and Mrs. James R. Case, '16. "Jim" is superintendent of an 800 acre farm owned by the Hampton Normal and Agricultural Institute. Mrs. Case was Miss Bessie H. Randall of Lebanon before her marriage in March, 1918.

SAFETY VALVE

FEEDING THE GIRL

Dear Editor:

WE WONDER WHY every time that we have a big dance on the Hill and our girls are visiting us that the food in the dining hall takes such a decided slump. It happened at the S. A. T. C. Hop, it happened at the Junior Prom last May and then when the Football Hop is in progress the dining hall serves us with stewed corn and one-half of one sweet potato for supper. We were up quite late the other evening and our stomach felt as if there was something missing which even the ice cream at the dance could not help to any great degree. For years we have done our best to boost Connecticut only to have to hear from our friends at home that we starved our lady friends when we entertained them at Storrs. Now here is a chance to boost the college but all that we do to please the girls is lost when they feel the pangs of hunger in the middle of the dance and when they return home do they talk favorably of the place? Perhaps, but the writer has heard considerable about our beautiful dining hall. Why can't we have some decent meals served for the few days when Hop festivities are in progress?

Yours truly, I. N. S.

BLACKGUARDS

Two years ago a bunch of students organized the Blackguards. There were three primary motives that prompted the working spirit of these men; first, to make money; second, to give the college a good time by putting on a first class minstrel show and third, to have a good time in doing it.

When people get together with such ideas in mind, there is usually something doing, and in this case something did. They did so well and satisfied all the requirements of a good show so fully that now the name is thought of with pleasure by all who had a chance to see the Blackguards.

Everyone likes a fun-filled, lively, care-freeing minstrel show, with its song and dance act and its clever end men. The praise that is due those who get up such a show is rendered when the audience applauds and asks someone who knows whether he had his hands folded at the last show the Blackguards put on. We know he did NOT, for we were there and had blisters on our hands next day.

When the pseudo niggers announced that they were getting ready to take the stage again soon this fall, enthusiasm was immediately shown and Success is the middle name of the organization.

Major Alexander recently received a Catalogue from a Willimantic jeweler. Be careful, Al, there are a bunch of fake diamonds on the market this year.

MRS. C. H. SAVAGE

IN MEMORIAM

Alumni of the College and students of the institution who are acquainted in the community, are extending their sympathy to our friend Mr. C. H. Savage in his sudden bereavement. On Sunday, November 23, Mrs. C. H. Savage, who had just undergone an operation for appendicitis at a hospital in Willimantic, failed to rally, owing to the condition of her heart. Her death was most unexpected to every one, for she had been active in both Grange and Church work until practically a few hours before going to the hospital. It was not her nature to speak of her own suffering and none outside the immediate circle of her family and intimate friends knew that for the last few years Mrs. Savage had suffered greatly from periodic attacks of illness. It was in the hope of obtaining relief from this that she at last consented to an operation.

Shortly before her death Mr. Savage had been honored by being sent as a delegate from the State of Connecticut to the organization meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation at Chicago, a meeting held to organize the state Farm Bureaus into a National Federation. Those who were present reported that Mr. Savage's representation of the State at Chicago attracted favorable attention; and at a meeting of the New England representatives of the Farm Bureau Federation held at Boston a few days ago, resolutions of sympathy were adopted to be sent Mr. Savage.

The floral offerings at the Church at Storrs where the funeral was held Wednesday, November 26, attested the great esteem in which Mrs. Savage was held in this community. Because of her public-spirited activity during her long residence in this community, it was felt that some special words of appreciation needed to be said on this occasion. In speaking of her life and work among us, Mr. Dawson, minister and chaplain of the college, said: "Loyalty was the key-word of her life. She was loyal to her family, her friends, her community, her church." In closing the funeral service at the burial ground, the words were appropriately used, "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord, for they rest from their labors and their works follow them."

CHURCH NOTES

10:45 at Church on Campus—Mr. Dawson will occupy his own pulpit on Sunday, December 7.

The Sunday School will meet immediately after the Church service.

The Vesper Service will be held at the usual hour, 4:45. Mr. Maurice Lockwood will be the speaker.

The usual C. E. Meeting will be led by the ex-President of the C. E. The meeting promises to be of interest.

KAMPUS KLIPS

Peter Carrier (looking in new Date Book in President's Office)—"Miss Larkham, where can I find Miss Bidwell's name?"

Why don't you try asking her Pete?

Diddely Graf: "Hey, Rube, what 'pourquoi' mean?"

Gleason: "Why?"

Diddely: "Oh, I just wanted to know."

Instructor in History: "Mr. Manwaring, what is the meaning of 'bourgeoisie'?"

Scoop: "Gentlemen Farmers."

Entire Class: "We thank you, Scoop!"

Mr. Warner, lecturing in Poultry Breeding: "Speaking of breeding, Woodworth, what is a sport?"

Woodworth: "Football, baseball or basketball."

Louis Metelli can explain how a short man can wear a dress suit and not step on the tails.

Beano Brag says he'll never stay on the Hill over another vacation. It is lonesome without the Co-eds, Beano.

Miss Driscoll, our resident nurse, has a new assistant. She took splendid care of Brub Dow during Miss Driscoll's supper hour the other evening.

Hopwood is helping out in Boys and Girls Club work in a nearby city. He and Perry Wallace have charge of the female juveniles.

Heard at the Football Hop: "Have the programs come yet, Ossey?"

"Doesn't he look swell in a dress suit?"

"Mahoney looks fine with a collar on."

"Oh, I don't see anything wonderful about her!"

"Gee, where are all the Faculty tonight?"

"If I went as far as he did after a girl, I'd get a better one than he did."

"I wish I were down on the floor dancing instead of watching them from the running track."

"Darn this stiff bosom!"

"It was a great old 'wrestle' after all Boys!"

HEARD ON THE TRAIN

Father Bauer—"Hey Pinkie! Sit in her lap you'll look more natural."

Goodearl—"I don't want to get well, it's much better being a cripple."

Van Buren—"I ate that baled hay in the hash house this morning and now I am getting a little hoarse."

Where was Moses, '23, when Mr. Skinner put the lights out. She knows.

That bottle sure had a strong attraction for Mr. Skinner and Van Buren. We wonder what was in the bottle?

Pinkie—"Aw, come on."

New Londoner—"Gee that train can't be the Reno train. It looked more like the honeymoon express!"

A Gateway—Electrical

ONLY a forty-foot gateway bounded by two brick pilasters and ornamental lamps, but unlike any other gateway in the entire world.

For back of it is the General Electric Company's main office building, accommodating 2300 employees. And just next door is its laboratory with the best equipment for testing, standardizing and research at the command of capable engineers. Then down the street—a mile long—are other buildings where everything electrical, from the smallest lamp socket to the huge turbines for electrically propelled battleships, is made by the 20,000 electrical workers who daily stream through.

What a story this gate would tell, if it could, of the leaders of the electrical industry and business, of ambassadors from other institutions and from foreign lands.

The story would be the history of electric lighting, electric transportation, electric industries and electricity in the home.

This gateway, as well as the research, engineering, manufacturing and commercial resources back of it, is open to all who are working for the betterment of the electrical industry.

RHODE ISLAND TRIP

knew, but his gaze met that of a cop and Ricketts jumped back on for he saw one he knew too well or vice versa.

The train continued on its journey down the banks of the Thames River while Ricketts called out all the points of interest along the way, such as, the best place to get good board (a saw mill) and above all he pointed out one of the gravest situations in that part of the country, where people were dying to go, a hill covered with white tomb stones. His life was spared and soon we were in New London changing engines and on our way to Kingston through a wilderness of brush and sand. At the station we were met by the Rhode Island Freshmen. Cars awaited the team and our fair Co-eds. The rest of the Aggies lined up in squad formation led by the haughty Seniors and Juniors followed by the proud Sophs with their banner flying high, and tagging behind came the meek Freshmen in large numbers, quantity if not quality. With songs and cheers, a game and dinner ahead of them, they marched on with vigor, while Co-eds and gridiron champions sped by in autos.

As the procession neared the college they broke out with the well-known song, "The Aggies won the Boston game and down to Rhode Island they'll do the same," much to the agony of the spectators. They were shown into the dining hall, or the place to get rid of our money and ate the fruit of our investment, the maintenance by which we were to cheer our team on to victory. After dinner we inspected the college and it wasn't long before the pictures of C. A. C. looked mighty good to us. But soon all were headed in the general direction of the so called A. A. field and after another departing of the cold cash the Aggies lined up on the east side of the field for the coming battle.

Never before was there such an exciting game, nor with such doubts and surprises, waged against Rhode Island. The first three quarters found our opponents ahead with a score of 3-0. The Aggies with the ball on the fifty yard line, then our quarter called for the dreaded shift formation and up the field they went, making first down with every other down. First down and four to go, the whole Rhode Island team lay low but with locked arms the Aggies' gridiron line swept on and the third down found the pigskin lying peacefully a foot over the goal line. The referee glanced at the umpire with a dispairing look and confessed a touchdown. If ever a crowd looked and acted as if Middletown was let loose this one did. Co-eds were hugging those in reach, canes and hats filled the air, with the deafening cries of victory; but across the field stood a body of 300 who never murmured but stood in awe and dispair as their last game was lost to a "Bunch of Farmers," as they said.

No army ever marched so triumphantly as did that body of students who marched back to the train. With voices hoarse and tears of happiness they boarded the train for home. The ride to New London was one continual rough house as the cars were beginning to show the effects for the floor was strewn with confetti from several marriages and advertizing posters flying in all directions. Those that were lucky enough to have a co-ed friend were now the victims of their hunger which they had to quit by taking them out to dine at the "Far East." No sooner had the train stopped than New London stood in awe as the Conn. Aggies came up the main street in the form of a snake dance singing and cheering led by the football heroes and when the sound faded away up the street and seemed to disappear it began to come back but only in a different form, for back marched the procession headed by a thirty piece brass band. Trolleys stopped in their tracks while express horses rushed madly down the street; everything gave way to the parade of victors.

Four of the active club members were the guests of A. J. Brundage on the Hill for Thanksgiving Day dinner.

The diners who had just begun to eat were interrupted by the alarm that the train was to leave in three minutes; all took a last mouthfull of that ill-fated feed, rushed madly toward that station with a Co-ed in one hand, coat in the other and napkins flying in the wind from their necks.

The trip to Willy was a comparatively quiet for the day's excitement was beginning to show, as most preferred to sleep. With the thoughts of the walk from Eagleville to home, and the vision caused those that possessed that dear article called CASH to get off at Willy and take a car from there to Storrs, while the rest relied on their own motive as transportation.

As the procession neared home there loomed up in the horizon the flames of a bonfire that those who stayed home had built on hearing the results of the game. Soon all were gathered around the fire singing and hearing speeches from the heroes and the end of a "Perfect Day" was ended by dancing until midnight when all retired exhausted but happy.

In keeping with the plan to make athletics an important factor in the physical development of the student body, a volley ball schedule has been drawn up by R. J. Guyer. The freshmen and sophomore classes have been practicing for several weeks. December 10 will open the season with the Sophomores lined up against the School of Agriculture and the Seniors pitted against the Juniors. The faculty will have an opportunity when they are matched against the individual classes.

RHODE ISLAND GAME

and then a forward pass went wild. Murphy smashed thru tackle for 10 yards making it first down on Connecticut's 10 yard line. With her back to the wall Connecticut braced and the next four attempts at our line Rhode Island was able to make only five yards and the ball passed to Connecticut on downs. The ball was put in play on Connecticut's 20 yard line because in the last desperate attempt to score the Rhode Island quarterback heaved a forward pass which grounded behind the Aggie goal line.

Hopwood skirted Rhode Islands left end for ten yards but on the next play he was thrown for no gain and running clear across the field in an attempt to gain around their right end. On the next play Turner broke thru and smeared Hopwood for a seven yard loss. Hopwood tried to boot the ball to safer territory but the high wind caused it to go high and short and Rhode Island was again in possession of the ball within striking distance of the Aggie goal line. Murphy made 4 yards thru tackle but Johnson was stopped without gain.

On a beautifully executed crisscross that fooled the Aggies completely Murphy sprinted around our left end for fifteen yards bringing the ball to Connecticut's 20 yard line. Puffed with their success with their crisscross they tried another one at Ricketts but the Aggies had profited by their loss in the previous play and Ricketts smeared Johnson before he could gain an inch. Nordquist hit the line for a scant 2 yards and then Johnson dropped back and booted a pretty drop kick squarely between the posts.

Score: Rhode Island 3—Connecticut, 0.

Rhode Island kicked off to Connecticut and Ricketts received the ball on the 10 yard line and carried it 8 yards before being tackled. Prescott hit the line for 2 yards and Murphy crashed thru for 4 yards. The quarter ended with the ball on Connecticut's 24 yard line in the Aggies' possession.

SECOND QUARTER

Baxter crashed thru for 6 yards on a skin tackle play and Prescott made it first down. Hopwood tried the left end in vain and Murphy found the Rhode Island line holding like a stone wall. Baxter heaved a forward to Alexander but the wind carried it wild. Hopwood booted a beautiful high spiral way down in Rhode Island's territory to Murphy and Alexander threw their captain before he could take a step. It was Rhode Island's ball on their 27 yard line. Connecticut was over anxious and received a five yard penalty for offside. Nordquist hit the line for three yards and Johnson added two more. At this stage of the game Maguire and Blake engaged in a slight altercation and both were promptly banished from the field. It was a sorry blow to the Aggie eleven as Maguire is a tower of strength in the line.

Patterson went in for Maguire and Brownell took Blake's place. Rhode Island found the going rather rough and so after three attempts at trying our line they punted to Hopwood. Baxter went thru center for 5 yards and Prescott added four more. Murphy punched the Engineers' line for first down and Hopwood sent a thrill thru the grandstand by tearing around left end for 15 yards. Johnson was injured on the play but pluckily returned to the fray. Murphy hit the line for 5 yards and Prescott tacked on an additional 4. Baxter squeezed thru for a scant two but that was sufficient to make it a first down. Baxter tried a forward pass but Nordquist had his eyes open and intercepted it on Rhode Island's 30 yd. line. Murphy made 2 yards thru center and Nordquist got 2 more. Johnson tore around left end for 8 yards and the half ended with the ball in the middle of the field.

Score: First Half—Rhode Island, 3 Connecticut, 0.

SECOND HALF

Hirtle kicked off to Prentice after considerable trouble as the wind persisted in blowing the ball off the mound before he could kick it. Prentice was downed on the 40 yard line. Murphy hit the line for 3 yards and Baxter twisted thru for 3 more. Baxter heaved a pass to Mitchell but it was low and Mitch couldn't hold onto it. Altho it was only the fourth down the ball was given to Rhode Island on downs by the referee in spite of the protest of the headlinesman. Mitchell broke thru and pulled Murphy down for a ten yard loss on an attempted end run. Johnson hit the line for 3 yards and Nordquist couldn't gain an inch.

Nordquist punted to Hopwood on Connecticut's 30 yard line. Hopwood tried the right end and gained 8 yards. Baxter was only able to make a scant one but Murphy tucked down his head and ripped thru for first down. Prescott made two but Baxter found no holes in the opposing line so he heaved a forward to Alexander but it went far over Al's head and gained nothing. Hopwood tried his luck at left end and shot thru for an easy ten yards. Baxter made six and Rhode Island was penalized 15 yards for piling on after the runner was down.

Connecticut tried Rhode Island's line twice but it netted only 2 yards and in the bargain the blue and white was penalized 15 yards for piling on. Baxter tried another forward but it failed and with the ball in midfield and the fourth down Baxter again tried the air route without success and the ball passed to Rhode Island on downs. Johnson got away for 8 yards and Murphy made it first down by adding 6 more. Murphy hit the line for six but at this stage the Aggies tightened their defense and the ball passed to Connecticut on downs. Hopwood raced around left end for forty yards after Murphy, Prescott and Baxter had smeared their defense but was called back and Aggie was given a 15 yard penalty because one of her men was caught holding. Again Hopwood tried the end and made ten yards. The quarter ended with the ball in Connecticut's possession on Connecticut's 42 yard line.

DE LAVAL EFFICIENCY

The DE LAVAL CREAM SEPARATOR is the most efficient means of separating cream from milk. It skims to a trace, not only under ideal conditions, but under ordinary farm conditions.

The DE LAVAL is efficient because over forty years' experience in manufacturing cream separators has brought out the best construction in every detail. That is why the DE LAVAL skims close, turns easy and handles the milk and cream quickly.

The DE LAVAL service is also efficient. Thousands of agents and salesmen are selected for their ability to give intelligent and prompt separator service. More DE LAVALS in use than of all other makes combined.

SOPHOMORE CLASS MEN WIN SECOND ROPE PULL

SHORTHORN COW IS STUBBORN OPPONENT

Valentine Meadow Forms the Scene of Action—Skinner and Begg Lead Class

The Sophomores again demonstrated their superiority in rope pulling by defeating their opponents after an exciting five minutes pull. The only differences were that in this case the 2a Class in Animal Husbandry represented the Sophs while an elderly but stubborn Shorthorn cow took the place of the Freshies and Mr. Skinner, assisted by Mr. Beggs, held down Zunk's position while the cow had to do without a Crofts.

The Tuesday morning An. Hus. class on November 15 were judging cattle on the Judging Pavillion when a young lady rushed up and informed them that a cow, in some mysterious manner, had fallen into the big ditch in Valentine meadow.

Mr. Skinner immediately issued a call for volunteers but the class had already left for the scene of action. Arriving at the battle ground a rope was hurriedly tied around Bossie and the second great rope pull was on.

After five minutes of stubborn resistance the Freshies' representative admitted defeat, but so rallied that, as soon as she felt solid ground under her feet she started full speed for Maguire, whom she evidently blamed for her plight. But he gave her a straight arm (involuntarily) and to "Speed's" protection. He, in turn, started to join the rest of the class but they had disappeared. Thus ended another victory for the Class of '22.

NEW STUDENTS

It is interesting to note that our number of ex-service men is steadily increasing. Mr. Frank J. Blanchard of South Manchester, Conn., and Thomas W. Hogan of Unionville, Conn., have recently come to C. A. C. under the Federal Board direction. Both men have served in France and have been wounded.

Mr. Blanchard was in the service for over two years and during that time received wounds in the Toule sector and also in the St. Mehiel drive. He has had the rather unusual experience of being buried in a dugout with nine other men and is the only one who escaped with his life. Mr. Blanchard expects to take a special course in Horticulture while at C. A. C. He is also interested in basketball and expects to try out for the College team.

Mr. Hogan was a private in Co. M., of the 102nd Infantry. Before going across, Mr. Hogan was a member of the Nat'l Guard and was sent across from an improvised camp at New Haven, Conn. He spent about one year in France and was wounded at Chateau Thierry. He was discharged last February. Mr. Hogan expects to take special courses in Dairy Husbandry.

RHODE ISLAND GAME

FOURTH QUARTER

Baxter threw a short pass over the center of the line to Mitchell who reeled off ten yards before he was downed. Murphy tore thru into the line for 6 yards but on the next two plays we were unable to gain an inch. Baxter squeezed thru for 5 yards and made it first down. Hopwood tried the end twice but found them blocked so Baxter heaved another pass but it didn't work.

The ball went to Rhode Island on downs and our last chance seemed gone. Ricketts hurt his shoulder and was forced to retire in favor of Marsh. Johnson made 2 yards and Nordquist added a big 7. But Prentice got thru on the next play and stopped the Mighty Murphy for a 2 yard loss. Nordquist dropped back to punt but the Rhode Island center heaved the sphere far over his head and Baxter tackled him for a 15 yard loss and the ball went to Connecticut on downs. Connecticut tried Rhode Island's line but managed to get only 4 yards on three attempts so Baxter tossed a short pass over the line to Gleason. It struck Gleason's sore hand, bounced into the air amid a loud groan from the Aggie supporters but "Rube" kept his head and grabbed it out of the air and dashed for Rhode Island's goal line. He was pulled down on the two yard line. Aggie was not to be denied however and after three plunges Baxter carried the ball over for victory. Hopwood kicked the goal and ended a perfect day.

Score: Connecticut 7, Rhode Island 3.

Hopwood kicked off to Johnson who carried it back to his thirty yard line. A forward Johnson to Gardner was good for 15 yards but here Mitchell halted their parade by intercepting one of their passes. Prescott made 3 yards and the whistle blew ending the greatest battle ever fought by these rival teams.
